PROFILE

I'm a Front-End developer who loves building websites and learning new things. For the past year, I've worked on real projects using HTML, JavaScript, React, Node.js, and MongoDB. I may not have job experience in a company yet, but I've built full-stack apps on my own that work just like real-world websites. I enjoy solving problems and making user-friendly designs. I'm excited to join a team where I can grow and use my skills to create great things.

Bistro Boss Restaurant is a full-stack restaurant web application built with React.js and Firebase that enables customers to browse menus, place orders, and make secure payments. The platform features user authentication, a responsive design, and an admin dashboard for managing menu items and orders. Built with modern technologies including Tailwind CSS, React Router, and Firebase services, it provides a complete restaurant management solution with role-based access control for both customers and administrators.
